Mayor April Capone Almon is pleased to announce that the East Haven Farmers' Market will hold its 1st open air market this 2008 season. "If you love fresh produce and home-baked goods, you will find it here in East Haven." The Mayor explained. Whether its honey straight from the hive, fresh cut flowers, or pasture-raised meat, you will find it all at the open-air farmers market of East Haven. This is much more than grocery shopping; this is a family outing, a wonderful warm-weather adventure, and a healthy one too.

The 2008 season of the East Haven Farmers' Market will kick off August 3 and continue every Sunday morning until October 26, 2008. Vender space is currently available. All farmers and producers must travel no further than 125 miles to the Town of East Haven.

Mayor Capone Almon sighted her reasons for starting this new tradition here in East Haven, "We envision a marketplace that is the hub of community activity, offering a bounty of nutritious foods grown by Connecticut farms with a selection of unique local crafts. Quite simply, Shopping at our Farmers' Market will benefit the local farmer and strengthen the East Haven community."

The market will be held in the parking lot of Town Hall. There is still space available. Applications for space and additional information is available at the Mayor's Office or on the town website at www.TownofEastHavenCT.org
