

SCRCOG Regional Public Survey Released

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: The South Central Connecticut Council of Governments (SCRCOG) has issued an online survey to assist the 15-town region prepare an update to the regional Plan of Conservation and Development (POCD).

POCDs are guidance documents that set policy priorities for the future of the region and its communities – physically, economically, environmentally and socially. POCDs contain goals and visions along with recommended actions to help work towards achieving those goals. The planning process involves engaging the regional community in a dialogue on its future, and the survey is a first step in leading that region-wide discussion.

The SCRCOG Public Survey intends to gather information from those who live, work, or own a business or property in the South Central CT region on current and future quality of life issues, housing and business development, conservation, and transportation throughout the region. SCRCOG will also notify the region as it holds public workshops and meetings throughout the planning process, which is expected to continue throughout the rest of the year.

SCRCOG is an economically diverse area of fifteen municipalities with a total population of approximately 570,000. The Region extends from the City of Milford on the west to the Town of Madison on the east, and to the City of Meriden to the north with the City of New Haven centrally located on the coast of the Long Island Sound. SCRCOG brings together its local governments to foster communication and coordinate regional land use and transportation planning as well as identifying and addressing regional issues.

The online survey is available on SCRCOG's website, or can be directly accessed at https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/Public\_SCRCOG.
