

THE TOWN OF EAST HAVEN

The Town of East Haven is a suburb of the City of New Haven comprising approximately 12.6 square miles. The Town is bounded by New Haven on the west, and Long Island Sound on the south.

This area purchased by the Reverend John Davenport and Theophilus Eaton in 1638, was later known as East Farms. It was obtained from the Indian Sachems Momaugin and Mantowese. In 1639 Thomas Gregson, the first landowner, purchased Solitary Cove, later called Morris Cove. The first Connecticut iron works was located in 1655 by Lake Saltonstall, formerly named Lonotononket, and then Furnace Pond.

Jacob Hemmingway, the original Yale student, served as the first pastor (1704-1754) of the congregational Church. In 1774 the Old Stone Church was erected, the first minister was Nichols Street. British General William Tryon invaded this area in 1779. During the Revolutionary War, Lafayette encamped on the Green, revisiting it in 1824. In 1881 Fair Haven, Granniss Corners and Morris cove were ceded to New Haven. The initial Town meeting (1785) named Issac Chidsey the First Selectman. The Town of East Haven became an incorporated Town in May of 1785.

Today, East Haven is served by and linked to New Haven and eastern Connecticut by Interstate 95 with local access roads leading directly to highway exits and entrances. Interstate 95 and Connecticut Route 80, located in northern East Haven, not only provide easy access to New Haven but also to Interstate 91, the main route to Hartford, CT. East Haven is conveniently located within minutes of the New Haven Terminal, a deep water berthing facility. Amtrak provides service to Boston, New York, and Washington D.C. along the northeast corridor, shoreline route which passes through East Haven. The Tweed-New Haven Airport on the western boundary of East Haven has regularly scheduled commuter flights to Newark, Philadelphia and Washington D.C.

ABOUT THIS DIRECTORY

This directory is funded by a grant provided by the William Caspar Graustein Memorial Fund. The Fund is committed to enhancing early care and education programs for young children and their families. Supported by the Graustein Memorial Fund, East Haven's School Readiness Council identified a need for communicating information about community services and activities for families with young children. This directory has been created to fill this need. We hope families will use the directory to discover and utilize the resources available to them in our community and surrounding are.
